The Why

In 2005, Colorado was ready for evidence-based practice. Autism diagnoses were on the rise, and the adult system was warming up to the idea of behavior analysts. In 2007, the state recognized behavior analysts as practitioners in the adult waiver program. In 2010, the state insurance mandate for ABA treatment for children diagnosed with autism was passed. Need for behavior analysts with expertise in functional analysis and treatment for adults was also evident. Reaching underserved individuals, the ability for families to utilize insurance benefits for ABA treatments and building a reputation of excellence were among the driving forces behind BSOTR's expansion and growth over the years (200% in 2017, 250% in 2016, 400% in 2015, 300% in 2014). We are passionate about reaching those who have been underserved. We have access to the most powerful technology to change lives and the world for the better: Behavior Analysis.

The How

We employ top talent BCBAs to supervise every referral. We break the entire service area up into regions that are led by regional coordinators (RC). The RC's are supported by our Director of Services (and Asst), and Clinical Director (and Asst). We use evidence-based functional assessments/analysis and skill assessments to inform individualized behavior therapies. Our therapy helps teach children and adults a safe or more appropriate way to communicate their wants. We employ BCaBAs to support growing caseloads while we recruit and hire additional talent from across the globe. This allows us to avoid a waitlist, helping fulfill our mission. In addition to providing continuing education funds, we bring in amazing educators and practitioners to provide workshops and training to help our behavior analysts continue to develop their skills and repertoires. We use Organizational Behavior Management (OBM) in our performance bonus system and throughout our policies and procedures to help motivate top performers, and to reinforce excellence in our employees.

The What

Behavior Analysis teaches us that we need not view behavior as being caused by mystical mentalism. Instead, we know that behavior is impacted by contingencies. We can have a great impact on behavior by adjusting the environment and by providing new learning opportunities. BSOTR works to identify the “why” behind unsafe, dangerous, or problematic behaviors, while teaching more appropriate behaviors to accomplish a similar result. BSOTR also works to teach basic language, social skills, coping behaviors, and other skills to help our clients live more inclusive and happier lives. We strive to educate and develop our staff to use cutting edge approaches that have been proven effective in peer-reviewed research. We provide ethical, effective, and pragmatic services and training to change the world with ABA. We provide journal clubs, expert consultation, workshops, trainings, and continuing education funds to ensure our staff are the best and stay the best. We are set apart by our focus on function. BSOTR practitioners are not satisfied with descriptive assessments to inform their behavior plans, they manipulate independent variables to confirm hypothesized functions before implementing treatment plans, saving time, improving success, and promoting fiscal responsible, ethical, best-practice.

Colorado and beyond

All of this is happening in the most beautiful areas in the US. We serve the entire state of Colorado, NW New Mexico near Durango, and Cheyenne, Wyoming. The beauty of the mountains, the challenge of the ski slopes, the peaceful trails, the rivers, the eastern plains, city life, rural farms, amazing food and drink, and more. We invite you to come see it for yourself.

Now we have told you a little bit about us, would you like to learn more? We would like to get to know you better. For most positions, we do our interviewing a little differently. We offer a multiple day shadowing experience in person. This allows you to see exactly what the job entails and to talk with several current employees, ask them whatever you like! This should provide us with a clear picture as to your skillset and whether you would be a good fit with the BSOTR family. It also provides you an opportunity to learn about the position from current employees and to make an educated decision about whether this is the job for you. We offer competitive salaries, an amazing paid time off (PTO) system, medical/dental, and IRA with a match. We also provide a 90-day review that normally results in a salary increase (we like to get data on new employees). Salary ranges are available on request. Please send your resume and letter of intent to applicants@bsotr.com.
